YANKTON ITEMS

An old fashioned spelling school is to be held in the hall Friday night. Everybody come and have a good social time.

Some of the Yankton people, young people and older ones, have been enjoying the snow by sleigh riding and coasting. Something unusual for this climate.

On account of the cold weather all the mills and camps in this vicinity are closed.

Quite a number of social affairs have taken place in this neighborhood during and just after the holidays.

An open session of the Grange was held New Year's with a social party in the evening, and a dance Saturday evening, January 8th, given by the Red Men of Yankton, which was attended by the largest crowd that has been seen here for some time. Before the dance Red Men held a public installation of officers. There has also been several parties given at private homes. And not the least in importance by any was the Christmas tree given by Mr. Lake to the pupils in his room, at the school house. Mr. Faxon, the principal, and his pupils were present, as also were many visitors.

Mr. Saulner has sold twenty acres of his farm to Mr. Lovell for $75 per acre. Mr. L. J. Hignall is much elated over the probable success of his perpetual motion scheme, having received papers giving him much assurance to that effect.

Quite a small commotion was caused in this vicinity a few mornings ago just after the snow, when many tracks were noticed winding in and out through several yards and over fences. Two young men, eager to trap something, mounted their spirited horses and dashed along the tracks, following the same in and out until they wound up at the home of one of our young bachelors, but he declared he was not out hunting deer that night and he must have proven an alibi, for they let it go at that.
